1972 - Mr. J K Kapur (right) with Mr. Dilip Kumar (centre) and Mr. Prem Chaddha (left) at the launch of Copper Chimney in Worli, Mumbai

During the Partition of India in 1947, Mr. J K Kapur left everything behind and migrated to Bombay from the modern-day Pakistan. He always wanted to share with the city the culinary experience reminiscent of his years growing up near the North West Frontier province.

In November 1972, 25 years after he first landed in this new city, his love for food took shape as the first Copper Chimney in the heart of Bombay.

Copper Chimney is an ode to the secret recipes and cooking techniques that Mr. J K Kapur envisioned, using influences from slow-cooked dishes across undivided North India, from Peshawar to Delhi.

Our story is our taste, the secret recipes are our lineage and our reputation is on your plate. Enjoy it with a fork, spoon, or just your hands.

Copper Chimney, since 1972
Indian Food, Made Unforgettable.

Nourishing and rich, refreshing and light, Copper Chimney's soups and starter plates can be paired for a wholesome meal, or be the splendid start to your feast.
